Overview

Design your own marine reserve, considering where the reserve would be located, what species it would protect, and how you would balance conservation with human activities like fishing, tourism, and research.

Instructions

Where will the marine reserve be located? Show on the map of Aotearoa below.

Instructions

1. What are the goals of the reserve? (What species is it aiming to protect? What research will take place?)
2. What activities would be permitted in the reserve?
3. Who do you think might be opposed to your proposed marine reserve? Why? What might you do about it?
4. Present a labelled drawing of your reserve, showing the area it will cover. Include diagrams of examples of some of the species it will protect.
